

New Constitution? 6th Try Nov. 5

(On Nov. 5, the voters of Pennsylvania will be called upon to decide whether we should assemble a convention to write a new constitution. This is the first of a series of articles exploring in depth that important question and the arguments both for and against it.)

By PHIL WECK
Editorial Page Editor, Courier-Times

In 1681 a fellow named William Penn wrote the first "frame of government" for the territory known as Pennsylvania.

Ever since, the people living in that territory have been squawking long and loud and with varying degrees of success over their territorial and state frame of government — the various constitutions.

They complained so bitterly that they forced Penn to rewrite his first attempt in 1701 and brought about new constitutions in 1776, 1790, 1838 and 1873.

On Nov. 5 Ballot

The complaints have risen to a new crescendo again this year, so much so that a call for another convention has been put on the ballot for Nov. 5.

We will find on the ballot, above the list of candidates for the various offices, this question: "Do you favor a constitutional convention to prepare a new constitution subject to ratification by a vote of the people?"

We can vote either yes or no on the question.

For—And Against

A lot of important organizations and a lot of important people are urging a "yes" vote. And a lot of important groups and individuals are asking us to turn the whole thing down.

Gov. William W. Scranton is so strongly of the opinion we need a new constitution that he originated the legislative bill putting the problem on the ballot and worked hard to have it passed. His four predecessors in the governor's mansion are in whole-hearted accord with him — Govs. Lawrence and Leader, Democrats, and Fine and Duff, Republicans. Senators Scott and Clark go along enthusiastically and both major political parties support the convention. So do the State Chamber of Commerce, the Pennsylvania Bar Association, the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters and many other civic-minded group.

Equally Important

NEW TRIAL ORDERED FOR DR. WEINER

Genovese Wins Battle In Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today ordered an appeals court to reexamine its refusal to allow a new trial to Vito Genovese, recently identified as "boss of all bosses" on the Cosa Nostra crime cartel.

Good Evening!

Hurricane Ginny doing us wrong.

After tagging the Virginia and North Carolina coasts and even waving at Atlantic City with high tides and a sprinkle, she's doing a Bossa Nova right out to the sea.

No damaging winds and floods wanted, understand, but Ginny might have favored this Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey region with, say, something like a 48-hour northeaster. That would have cured the drought.

Guess we're just going to have to keep on being dry.

Governor Rockefeller and Senator Goldwater continue sparring for favor, position, popularity and acceptance for a chance to meet the champ next year and it's an odd circumstance: Neither man large enough to climb into the ring.

Mr. Richard Nixon kayaked once, but keep an eye on him. And also, regardless of Mr. William Scranton's renunciation of interest, miracles could happen, and this one might be a dandy.

Election Day two weeks from tomorrow. And do you notice what's happening?

Both the Republican and Democratic parties of Pennsylvania enthusiastically committed themselves to constitutional revision and now both are enthusiastically trying to forget the commitment.

We think that already we can say this: Unless the people of the state get on the ball between now and November 5 and understand the need of voting for a constitutional convention, we're going to be saddled for the next 100 years with the same archaic, extravagant and grossly inefficient system of government we've had since 1873.

Those revitalized Cleveland Browns with Jimmy Brown a football team of beauty, but awful to behold as they trampled the Eagles yesterday.

And Jack Nicklaus wins the $70,000 Sahara Invitational with Arnold Palmer's aching back putting him nine strokes behind.

Five firemen were overcome by smoke at a recent college blaze when a crowd of girls ran from a dormitory in their nighties.

Those culprits who robbed the locker room of a district golf club a few days ago must have been thirsty.

Drive carefully, please.

No Rain - And No Visitors

Fallen leaves and parched woodlands at Washington Crossing State Park wait silently — anxiously — for much needed rain to end the threat of forest fires. The drought-stricken park, like others in the state, is closed to the public until the critical period ends with adequate rainfall. (Courier-Times Photo)

Drought Edict Effective

Park Areas Empty As Result Of Ban

Washington Crossing State Park, usually a beehive of activity with several thousands of visitors on Sundays, yesterday played host to a mere 1,000 visitors — none of whom entered the closed park area.

The sharp contrast to last weekend's record crowd was the result of Gov. William W. Scranton's directive last week that all state parks be closed for the duration of the drought which has plagued Pennsylvania as well as much of the country.

Until Adequate Rainfall

The order also bans hunting and fishing until adequate rainfall provides forests and woodlands with enough protection against forest fires such as have occurred in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and other parched areas.

The 1,000 persons who did come to Washington Crossing Park yesterday visited the Thompson-Neely House and the Memorial Building, both of which will remain open.

Ginny Pounds Adrift Ship

CAPE HATTERAS, N. C. (UPI) — Hurricane Ginny inched away from the North Carolina today but its 80 mile an hour winds and heavy seas pounded a Navy destroyer escort adrift with 10 men aboard.

A Navy hurricane hunter plane located the 306-foot USS Fogg, en route to a Texas mothball fleet, pitching in the rough weather about 150 miles east of Cape Fear, N. C.

This was about 50 to 60 miles southwest of Ginny's center which was located in a 11 a.m. EST advisory from the Washington Weather Bureau at latitude 34.1 north, longitude 74.2 west, or about 115 miles south-east of Cape Hatteras.

Winds of about 80 miles an hour extended outward 50 miles in all directions from the center and gale-force winds sent heavy surf crashing into the North Carolina coast. Gale winds were felt as far as 250 miles to the north and east.

Criminal Negligence Ruled Out

TRENTON (UPI) — The New Jersey Supreme Court today ordered a new trial for an osteopath convicted of manslaughter in the hepatitis deaths of 12 of his patients.

The court ruled 5-2 that the state had not proved criminal negligence on the part of Dr. Albert L. Weiner of Erlton, Camden County. It reversed Weiner's conviction and 2-4 year prison sentence and ordered the Camden County Court to conduct a new trial.

The Supreme Court majority said the state, which advanced at least four possible causes for the transmission of serum hepatitis by Weiner to his patients, "could not prove that any one of those possibilities was in fact the culpable one."

The state had attempted to prove that serum hepatitis was transmitted through the use of bottles of saline solution on more than one patient without sterilization, inadequate sterilization of syringes and needles and the re-use of drug bottles into which vaccination needles were dipped.

Four of the 12 patients whose deaths were under question had lived in Lower Bucks County.

They were Mrs. James McManamon, 7 Village Lane, Vermilion Hills, Levittown; Mrs. Marjorie Atkins, 191 Beechwood Ave., Langhorne; Mrs. Ethel Neuman, 11 Overbrook Lane, Oak Tree Hollow, Levittown, and George T. Lauer, 268 Magnolia Drive, also Levittown.

Dr. Weiner had been a consulting psychiatrist for Delaware Valley Hospital, Bristol, and at least one of his patients was also treated, although not by him, at Lower Bucks County Hospital.

The court said the problem in proving any of the charges brought against Dr. Weiner was that the virus for serum hepatitis, which is transmitted directly into the blood stream by the injection of contaminated material, could not be isolated and distinguished from the virus for infectious hepatitis which is a communicable disease transmitted through the mouth.

"There was no way to prove (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

Motorcycle
Chases Car
After Prank

A pre-Halloween prank wound up with a motorcycle chasing a Volkswagen through Bristol Township, Fairless Hills and Lower Makefield Township early yesterday morning before police brought a halt to the escapade.

Falls Township police said it all started when Richard Coates, 20, of 536 Western Ave., W. Bristol, said he was standing in front of Tag's Bar at the Five Points Shopping Center at 3:30 a.m.

Suddenly, Coates related, a Volkswagen pulled up with two men in it. One of the men beckoned Coates over to the car. As Coates approached the car, one of the men threw a pumpkin in his face and then the Volkswagen sped off.

Pursue Car
Coates and his friend, Robert Carnes, 22, of 71 Vermilion Way, Levittown, then got on Carnes' motorcycle and began to pursue the pumpkin tosser.

The chase went from Bristol Township into Fairless Hills where the Volkswagen went up on a sidewalk and over a lawn at 330 Trenton Road. At this point, Coates got off the motorcycle and the Volkswagen then tried to run him down, he told police.

Coates then reported the incident to Falls police who broadcast an alert for two men in the Volkswagen.

At 3:35 a.m., Lower Makefield police caught up with a car on Yardley Road near the Knowles-Doyle American Legion home. The two occupants in the Volkswagen were identified as Russell Pedrick, 22, of 333 Taft St., Bristol, and Robert Maurer, 20, of 23 Wisteria Lane, Willowood, Levittown.

All four men were arrested by Falls police and charged with disorderly conduct. Taken before Justice of the Peace John Melvin, Fallsington, at 5 a.m., they were released for a further hearing at 11 a.m., Thursday, after posting bail of $34 ($25 fine, plus $9 costs) each.

would carry it away from the North Carolina coast.

Poses Direct Threat

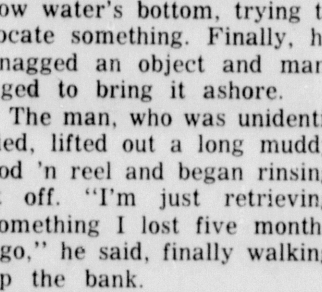

Ginny was the seventh tropical storm of the season and the first to pose a direct threat to the eastern coast of the United States.

It was reported moving slowly towards the northeast at about five miles per hour.

"Hurricane Ginny is expected to move northeastward very slowly during the next 24 hours and the intensity will remain about the same," the Weather Bureau said.

The Navy in New York announced that the 1,400 ton Fogg had been sighted and appeared to be riding out the storm. The Coast Guard cutter Chilula was expected to reach the decommissioned vessel and its skeleton crew by mid-afternoon and attempt to take her under tow again was due when the weather subsided.

Beach erosion was reported along the North Carolina and Virginia coastlines and there was minor flooding in low areas. Water lapped at the boardwalk in the resort city of Virginia Beach.

important people and equally important organizations. They are, in fact, groups that have strong power in the non-big-city, upstate regions: The State Grange, the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, the Association of Township Supervisors, the Tax Collectors' Association, the State Magistrates' Association.

Gov. Scranton has organized a "Vote Yes" committee, headed by—Lt. Gov. Raymond Shafer, R., and Miss Genevieve Blatt, D.

The opposition has come up with a "Save Our Constitution" committee under H. A. Thompson of the supervisors' group, H. A. Hatfield of the Farmers' Association and John Scott, master of the grange.

There is one point to note in this battle. Both groups agree that the present constitution has several basic and grave flaws that seriously hamper the state government and should be changed.

Where they differ mostly in how to make those changes. The "Vote Yes" committee wants to rewrite the document and give us a new one, saving only those parts which have stood up over the years.

Want It Amended
The "Save Our Constitution" committee says this is wrong. We should do it by amending the present document, they claim.

There are other points of contention, of course. Those on the rewrite-convention team argue that Pennsylvania should overhaul its judicial system, give us a stronger governor's office and administration and get rid of a lot of county and local offices, such as sheriff, prothonotary, surveyor, justice of the peace and local tax collector.

The defensive team talks about more "home rule" instead of a stronger centralized government and, since it includes tax collectors and JP's, maintains that it can prove these offices are essential and economical.

Home Rule
On the home rule bit, the arguments have come full circle with those advanced in William Penn's day. The cry for home rule was raised then, too.

Under Penn's "frame of government" and indeed until 1838 county officers were appointed by the governor, not elected. Although Penn provided for an assembly of "freemen" similar to our state legislature, that assembly had power only to accept or veto legislation; new laws had to be proposed by the governor or by a council appointed by him. And the governor himself had three votes in the assembly.

Public Pressure
Penn, under public pressure, had to give the assembly more powers in a new "frame" he wrote in 1791.

This on lasted until 1776 when, with independence blooming all around, a committee was formed to draft a constitution, Benjamin Franklin presiding.

Without so much as a by-your-leave from anyone or the semblance of a popular vote, Franklin's group declared the constitution it wrote in effect, adjourned the assembly and gave the governor the heave-ho.

New Constitution
Franklin's constitution didn't work either; it was so instantly unpopular that many of the men appointed to office refused to serve. In 1790, when the federal constitution was adopted, another committee tried again. The 1790 constitution went right along with the idea of appointing both county and local officials, and the squawks compounded. In 1838, by vote, the people called for a new constitutional convention, just as they are asked to do this year. A constitution was drafted and put up to popular vote.

And what a fuss it raised. It provided, for one thing, that judges be elected instead of appointed and that they serve specific terms instead of for life.

Every judge in the state, almost without exception, came out against it, long and loud and bitterly.

But they didn't prevail. The people accepted the new constitution.

One Act After Another
This one, however, failed to rule out special legislation; representatives in Harrisburg passed one act after another favoring their friends and their friends' corporations.

Gov. John Geary in 1870, commenting upon one act, said, "I am heartily opposed to the creation of any monopoly in the railway system of the state or giving any artificial body powers which would place it above and beyond the reach of the legislature."

Whereupon he vetoed a bill relative to the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Gov. Geary was an old soldier, thrice wounded in the Union army, mayor of San Francisco and governor of Kansas before he took over in Pennsylvania.

Court Hears
Moore Case

There was no decision today as the case of Miss Eleanor I. Moore, the Negro teacher who was fired by The Pennsbury Schools, was heard in Argument Court in Doylestown.

Miss Moore, 48, of Trenton, has petitioned the court to throw out her dismissal by Pennsbury. However, Walter P. Jackson, attorney for the school, has counter claimed that her petition is "defective" because she failed to file it within the 30-day limit after Dr. Charles H. Boehm, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, upheld the firing.

Thus, the case has gone into Argument Court and a decision as to whether it should be tried will be made within a few weeks.

park was made public in the Courier - Times earlier this month. This morning the successful completion of land negotiations was announced by Milton Berkes, chairman of Falls Township Board of Supervisors, and Richard J. Day, chairman of the Falls Township Authority.

Several Firms

Belitsky said that he and the other principal in Makefield Associates, Monroe Koggan, have spoken to several firms.

Nothing definite about which firms will settle there will be known until the completion of an engineering report on the site. This might take another month, he said.

Belitsky indicated that two firms had shown definite interest. The number of firms which might move in would depend on the size of each one.

15 O. 20

"If they are small firms, we'll probably have about 15 to 20 different ones there," he said.

No details were released on the price of the land, but Day said that it is estimated that a pumping station which will be built to service the park will cost $50,000.

He said that Makefield Associates also has options on several other pieces of property in the area.

The developers will handle the entire project, including the installation of streets and sewer and water facilities. The pumping station is required to connect the area to the Falls Township sewer system on Main St., Fallsington.

To Acquire Ownership

When the project is completed, the authority will acquire the ownership of the entire sewer and water system, Day said.

He said there will be a contract between the authority and the developer which will detail the construction to authority specifications and the methods by which the authority will ultimately acquire ownership of all the sewer and water facilities in the site.

"It should be pointed out that this is a separate project from all others in the township and will not affect the rates to present customers. It will, however, improve the overall debt repayment program of the authority in years to come," Day said.

Alert Delhaas Senior Saves
2 Brothers As House Burns

A 17-year-old Delhaas High School senior saved two of his brothers last night as flames extensively damaged the upper portion of their family's two-story home on Green Lane.

Eugene Reeves, returning from the movies about 9:15 p.m., saw smoke coming from his bedroom on the second floor. He rushed into the house at 17 Green Lane, opposite the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Bristol Township, and warned his brothers, Raymond, 15, and Jeremiah, 6, who were watching television in the first-floor living room.

Damage to the house was estimated at $5,000 by John Doster, chief of Edgely Fire Co. Two rooms on the second floor were gutted by the flames which hampered firemen of the Edgely and Levittown No. 2 Fire Companies for more than an hour before the blaze was brought under control.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Reeves Sr., and their five other children were attending church services in Trenton at the time.

The Reeves had a fire alarm system in the living room, but it had no battery in it, fire officials stated.

Firemen were also hampered by debris piled in the cellar and throughout closets in the frame house.

Meeting Tonight
Tullytown May Debate
Pay For Authority

By PHIL WECK
Courier-Times Staff Writer

When Tullytown Borough Council assemblies tonight, a question long tossed around in Lower Bucks is likely to come up.

It's the question of whether to pay the newly appointed borough sewer authority, and if so, how much.

Already that point has caused a lot of talk in the talkative borough, a lot of rumors and a lot of dissension, particularly in view of a hot local election just over the horizon. One rumor has it that the authority already has voted itself salaries. This one, however, is not true; only the borough council can do so. If it's going to, the first effort will be made tonight.

Authority Members
Members of the new authority are Edward C. Paoletta, 611 Main St., named to a five-year term; Albert Monti, 112 Fallsington Ave., four years; Joseph Cutchineal Sr., 750 Cheston Ave., three years; William DePasquale, 373 Main St., two years, and Gregory Parto, two years.

No Salaries
However, Middletown Newtown Borough authorities have no salaries attached. The same applies in Upper Southampton.

The proposition could come up tonight in Tullytown; it could be postponed. Either way, it looks like a good meeting.

The location is Borough Hall, Main St. and Bordentown Road; the time is 8 p.m.

Burglars Hit
Store Again

An undetermined amount of cash was taken from three cash registers and a safe in a Levittown drugstore which was burglarized for the third time in the past two-and-a-half years.

The theft was discovered yesterday morning at the Towne Pharmacy in the Five Points Shopping Center. Seymour Fox of 8304 Fairview Road, Elkins Park, discovered the break-in when he opened the store at 7:30 a.m.

Fox and Harry Goldstein, of 7010 Brentwood Road, Philadelphia, are owners of the drugstore.

Bristol Township police said three cash registers were broken open and a safe was taken. The burglars gained entrance by forcing open the front door.

that any of the deaths was due to serum hepatitis other than by showing the entire scene and drawing the epidemiological inference it would permit." Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub wrote. "Hence, without the proof that a large number of patients were allegedly infected, the state's case would fall."

The court said the state "was unable to prove precisely what happened" between Weiner and any of his deceased patients and had to attempt to rely on proof of habitual practices "to the end that the jury might infer that the same practices were followed in the treatment of the deceased."

On the retrial, the court said the issue should be "laid out before the jury clearly and sharply, for without such guidance the risk is too great that the verdict will be a response to the tragedy alone and nothing more."

It said the state "by expert proof" should direct the jury's attention to the acts or omissions which "are the probable vehicles for transmitting the disease" and if medical knowledge does not permit this, it should be clearly disclosed.

The court said if this were a civil suit, "We would not be troubled by the possibility that one of defendant's nurses may have been the careless actor" since, in a civil case, Weiner would have had to answer for the faults of his employees.

"But a criminal case is another matter. The injury to be vindicated is not the personal wrong suffered by the victim but rather an outrage to the state. And the question is not whether a defendant should absorb the dollar loss of his victim but whether his conduct justifies stamping him a criminal and sending him to state prison. In that inquiry, the test is not ordinary negligence — behavior of which men of the highest character are capable."

One of Dr. Weiner's Lower Bucks County patients who became ill with what allegedly was diagnosed as hepatitis was Ronald Matlack, now of 571 Bath St. but then living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Matlack, 68 Lavender Lane, Lakeside, Levittown.

"Don't Understand It"
Ronald Matlack could not be reached this morning. However, his mother, advised of the reversal said, "You don't expect me to get up and cheer, do you? I just don't understand it. That took a year out of Ronnie's life and we almost lost him."

Ronald was assistant sports director for the New Jersey State Prison a year ago. If Dr. Weiner's sentence had not been appealed, Mrs. Matlack said, he might have gone to the same prison.

Scranton Says He'd Accept 'Honest' Draft

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania is willing to accept an "honest and sincere" draft for the 1964 Republican presidential or vice presidential nomination.

That was the position Scranton took Sunday in a television interview in which he said he was not interested in running for President or vice president.

But he said in reply to a question that he would accept either nomination if he was "honestly and sincerely drafted."

He added that he believed such a draft was a thing of the past, however.

Scranton also endorsed the idea of debates between GOP presidential contenders and spoke out strongly in favor of a public accommodations provision in any new civil rights law.

Changed His Mind

The Pennsylvania governor, who said early this year that President Kennedy could not be defeated in 1964, said that he had changed his mind considerably since then.

He said the civil rights controversy, foreign policy, economic issues and handling of the recent railroad dispute had cost Kennedy popular support.

Scranton, who has been suggested as a possible vice presidential nominee on a ticket headed by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, differed with Goldwater on a number of issues.

While Goldwater spurned the proposal of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to debate issues between the GOP hopefuls, Scranton said he thought such debate would be helpful to the party.

Scranton also said he would very likely have voted for the nuclear test ban treaty, which Goldwater opposed.

Would Back Treaty

Told that Goldwater considered the 1954 Supreme Court school segregation decision to be "wrong" and asked whether he disagreed, Scranton replied: "Yes, I do."

Scranton said he thought Vice President Richard M. Nixon's 1960 defeat by Kennedy would be something of a handicap if Nixon should be the GOP nominee again. But he said Nixon had some other advantages and should not be counted out.

The governor said Goldwater obviously had taken a lead over other possibilities for the GOP nomination. But he said he doubted that Goldwater was so far out in front he could not be caught.

Firm Talks Continue

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Mediators scheduled another round of bargaining talks today between officials of Westinghouse Electric Corp. and two unions in an attempt to get negotiations off dead center.

No progress was reported after separate meetings yesterday between the company, the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and United Electrical Workers (UE).

Contracts for both unions, which represent a total of 42,000 employees, expired a week ago today but have been continued on a day-to-day basis.

Meanwhile, the negotiating team for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), which represents 14,000 workers in 60 Westinghouse plants, recessed bargaining on national contract issues until next Monday.

The group left here to concentrate on local contracts being negotiated with the company at various locations.

Evening School Has Openings

Additional registration for the Bristol Township School District's standard evening high school will be accepted until Thursday.

Lewis Kohn, director of the program, said that classes began last week but that a limited number of openings still remain. These will be filled this week only.

Kohn said that registrations for the standard evening high school will be accepted in his office at Delhaas between 7 and 9 p.m. today through Thursday.

amendments to the fourth chapter of a document about public worship which they debated last fall.

The chapter deals with the Breviary, the book out of which priests read their required daily prayers.

The chapter seeks ways to simplify, shorten and lighten the busy bishops' timetable of prayers, an authoritative council source said.

The Breviary presently requires bishops and priests to spend around an hour, often at hectic times of the day, in saying formulas and prayers in Latin.

To say these daily prayers in their native tongues would be as important to many priests as it would be for many American Catholics to hear Mass in English, according to church sources.

Burglars Steal $700 In Gems At Morris Apt.

Burglars escaped with $700 in jewelry from an apartment in the new Robert Morris Apartments, W. Bridge St., Morrisville police reported today.

Police said that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace who live in the apartment building reported a breaking and entry at 5:50 p.m. Saturday.

Entry was gained by jimmying the apartment door latch, police said. Patrolman Harry Tomlinson, who investigated, said that the burglars apparently tried to enter several apartments in the large apartment complex.

Another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stephens reported on Oct. 18 that there was an attempted entry into their apartment.

Police said that on this latest try, the burglars attempted to pry open several door latches but failed before gaining entry at the Wallaces' apartment.

Police said that no suspicious persons had been reported seen in the building and that no suspects were discovered yet. Chief John S. Davis of Morrisville police ordered a thorough investigation.
